

Custom Fitted Wardrobes Company Launches New Website

August 07, 2015

August 07, 2015 -
4 Wardrobe, a business based in Twickenham, London, United Kingdom, has recently launched their new website. One of the benefits of this new website is that it allows people to design their own custom fitted wardrobes, focusing on their personal design, size and budgetary needs. Afterwards, they can choose to order their wardrobes.

"We have been in the business of creating custom fitted wardrobes for some time now," says Michael Frick from 4 Wardrobe. "However, we wanted to do something different and give people the freedom to think about exactly what they want and whether or not that is feasible before actually placing an order. They can now do this by using our website."

Full instructions on how to design a wardrobe are provided. When it comes to providing bespoke fitted wardrobes London residents can use, there are quite a few companies that offer this service. However, they do not allow people to design their own wardrobe online first. They also do not give people a wealth of information on all the things they can do to make the process easier.

"Our system is incredibly easy to use," adds Michael Frick. "First, people choose whether they want the wardrobe against multiple walls, or whether they want it to be freestanding. They then indicate the size, whether they want hanging or sliding doors, how many doors they want and what interior fittings they want. Then they can choose the interior and exterior color, the door types and finally the handles."

Once all the information has been completed online, the fitted wardrobes London company will provide them with a quotation for the price of the specified wardrobe. Customers can then choose to order it as is and install it at home themselves, or they can opt to request for an installation service as well. Essentially, it enables people to have a full wardrobe consultation without having to ask a company representative to come to their home.

Meanwhile, 4 Wardrobes has already built up a reputation as being one of the top wardrobe design and fitting companies in London. This new service is expected to improve public perception even further.
