Revolutionary Oven Mitts Hit Amazon's Bestseller List

August 21, 2015 -
Las Vegas, Nevada based SMM Group, LLC had released a product onto the Amazon marketplace just a few short weeks ago and that product, a pair of oven mitts, has since made the bestseller's list, and sales continues to climb. SMM Group's oven mitts are revolutionary for a number of reasons, not the least of which is the material from which they are constructed. The EN407 Certified gloves are made from a combination of Kevlar and Nomex, the same materials used to create uniforms for firemen. These materials make the gloves almost completely burn proof and help wearers to avoid burns in temperatures up to 932 degrees Fahrenheit.

Designed by Grill Heat Aid, customers can't stop talking about the above-mentioned oven gloves. One customer remarked, "I bought these gloves to use while I was seasoning my cast iron skillet. I handled the cast iron skillet after it was heated to 200 degrees for 15 minutes, and perceived no sensation of heat whatsoever through the gloves, which also maintained a constant grip for about two minutes."

The secure grip is due to the silicone patches found on the palms of the oven mitts.

Another customer remarked that the gloves were the best that she had ever used, "With most oven gloves and mitts, when you pick up something hot, you can still feel that heat through the material. With these grill gloves, I felt no heat at all. I may as well have been holding something straight from the fridge."

SMM Group, LLC backs the gloves with a complete satisfaction guarantee and a lifetime replacement warranty. They are confident that any griller, baker, or anyone who pokes around at a live fire will find them more than useful. Many customers are finding them more than useful for camping trips and for keeping their fireplaces lit.

Those looking for more information about the gloves or about SMM Group, LLC can learn more on the company's official website. The grill gloves are currently available on the Amazon marketplace, where they have gained more than 1,500 customer comments, most of which are five star reviews.
