September 22, 2015 -
Missame LLC, a Sacramento, California based company, has announced that their professional makeup brush set has been featured on various beauty blogs. Amy Ng, spokesperson for Missame, stated, "We couldn't be happier to be featured on these blogs. In addition to being recommended by a famed Hollywood makeup artist, we're being talked about on so many beauty and fashion blogs."

Moyra Mulholland, a professional makeup artist based in New York, was one of those who featured the brushes. Mulholland wrote a personal email to Missame to congratulate them on producing a vegan friendly makeup brush set.

The Stepford Guide also featured the brush set, offering information and tips on how to clean makeup brushes. The most detailed review came from Cosmetopia Digest. Blogger Renu, a self-proclaimed tomboy turned makeup addict, has an internationally recognized blog and provides insights into why these brushes are beneficial to use, including the fact that they are cruelty free and provide soft bristles for applying makeup.

Femdirection, an up and coming fashion blogger, also featured the brushes on her blog, stating that she received the makeup brush set as a surprise gift. She observed, "Now I finally have a brush for all my makeup needs; concealer, brow bone, blending, powder, etc." The blogger went on to say that she no longer needs to use her hands to apply makeup or to get makeup on all of the objects that she comes into contact with, due to the brush set by Missame.

"Being recommended by professional makeup artist is wonderful," responded Amy Ng. "We are proud to be able to offer these cruelty free products, and even more thrilled that the beauty and fashion world is recognizing us for them."

Missame LLC offers a number of products, which are all designed to be natural and cruelty free, meaning they do not contain real animal hair. The brush set that is being highlighted on a number of blogs and websites offers additional benefits such as being easy to clean.

More about Missame LLC, and the products that they currently have available, can be seen on the company's official website.
