

Riverside Workers Compensation Lawyer Services Announced In Temecula California

May 14, 2015

May 14, 2015 -

The Law Offices of Kevin Cortright have announced the availability of Riverside Workers Compensation lawyer services in the Temecula, California area. The law firm focuses on assisting those with personal injury or workers compensation cases to get the settlement and financial assistance that they require and deserve. Those interested in learning more about this and other services offered by the firm are encouraged by Mr. Cortright to visit the company website at www.cortrightlaw.com. The company has stated the following in terms of compensation lawyer services:

"When injured at work, it can be an extremely challenging and stressful time. An attorney can provide legal representation assisting in getting the medical care, temporary disability and the settlement that is due."

The first key to any case including workers compensation in the Temecula region, as advised by Mr. Cortright is a medical evaluation made by a trained physician. Following this procedure, clients of the firm are able to fill out all of the required documentation so that the legal team can guide them through the majority of the steps involved in getting the care and financial aid they need.

A Temecula Attorney can be contacted through the Law Offices of Kevin Cortright website through the phone number and e-mail address listed in the contact information on the site or by filling in a form for a free compensation evaluation. The form includes personal questions such as name and address, as well as information on the case being evaluated, the injury, and how the event which caused the injury occurred.

For those who have been injured, not just onsite at a workplace, but offsite as well, the Temecula Personal Injury Attorney offers assistance for cases including automobile accidents, wrongful death and catastrophic injuries, motorcycle accidents, and dog bites. The company website supplies further insight into each of these case types through their personal injury or worker compensation blogs. Mr. Cortright has said the following regarding his personal injury services in Temecula:

"Auto accident injury is a frequent occurrence, knowing who to turn to when a car accident occurs is important. Getting the assistance from the beginning of the process is a tremendous relief. My office will help you find a qualified doctor, get your medical bills paid, recover property damage, obtain compensation for your pain and suffering, and hold the insurances companies and the negligent driver accountable."

Whether potential clients are seeking Temecula Workers Compensation or a Temecula Personal Injury Attorney, the firm encourages them to get in contact as soon as the injury or workplace accident takes place and is verified by a doctor. The Law Offices of Kevin Cortright have suggested that the quicker these cases are started, the more likely it is that clients will be fully compensated for their medical and legal fees, as well as get other monetary awards.
