Sanford, FL - Monika's Garden is now offering shoppers a bonus pair of new women's gardening gloves with each purchase of their handmade Garden Aprons with Pockets. The gloves, which are available in pink and purple colors, are designed to add more value to the gardening experience for users.

Made from breathable nylon and nitrile coating for the palms, the gloves are designed to protect the hands from dirt and water. Gardeners can use them to keep hands clean and dry for longer while digging, planting, pruning or weeding. Combined with the new garden apron that was recently released on Amazon, gardeners are expected to keep cleaner and be more efficient in their gardens.

The gardening aprons have the distinction of being handmade in the USA and have a number of features that help enhance the efficiency of users. They are made with deep pockets to allow for most small gardening tools to be carried around without falling out. In addition, they are designed with adjustable waists and convenient belts to hold a variety of gardening tools and gadgets while gardening. Users can also expect advanced protection from soil and plant juices due to the heavy duty cotton construction of the apron, allowing clothing to stay cleaner for longer.

According to Monika's Garden, the handmade garden aprons with pockets are perfect for both seasoned gardeners and those who are new to the art of gardening. The aprons can be used for planting, weeding, replanting, and many other gardening tasks. Its ability to hold various gardening tools in its deep pockets and belt reduce the need for gardeners to leave tools behind and minimize the chances of them getting lost or misplaced.

The new handmade aprons are available in three designs, blue stripe, pink stripe and zig zag, making it possible for fashion-conscious gardeners to match them with various outfits. The addition of the women's gardening gloves, as a bonus offer, allows shoppers to recoup the price paid for the aprons.
