Christchurch-based McKenzie & Willis offers a full range of home furnishings and fixtures to customers throughout New Zealand. The product line includes floor coverings and window treatments.

Christchurch NZ: McKenzie & Willis is pleased to announce that the anniversary of its move to Blenheim Road has reached four years. Prior to this location, the retail firm has been located in other quarters, including the corner of Tuam and High Streets, the reconstructed Queens Theatre in Hereford Street and the first floor of the Royal Exchange Building. Retail branches are located in Timaru, Dunedin, Queenstown and Wanaka.

A range of products is currently available, including floor coverings by Cavalier Bremworth Stylex. The Cavalier name is known for the quality of its designer wool carpets, as well as the addition of solution-dyed nylon carpets to its product line. The Bremworth company was the initiator of the Woolmark Seal of Quality. It is also the first to obtain an internationally recognized eco-label for its entire wool carpet line. Soiling resistance is a process which helps to reduce the accumulation of soil in the fiber.

Luxaflex is a brand name synonymous with motorized roller blinds. The in-home consultants will be happy to visit with customers to determine how the technology can be applied to new homes or to retrofitting during a renovation of an existing home. The batteries to operate the motorized blinds are concealed within the roller tubes, so installing the blinds doesn't require the services of an electrician. Some of the benefits of the technology include clean lines, low installation costs and effort and quiet operation.

The name Sealy has long been associated with the highest quality mattresses. The product line available through McW includes choices in comfort levels, sizes, and design. Posturepedic, slat, and trundle designs can be selected to suit the size of the room and the size of the bed frame or base. A range of mattress sizes can be selected, including single beds all the way up to SuperKing size.
