February 24, 2017 -

Healthy Steps LLC, a family owned vitamin and supplement company in Cottontown, Tennessee, recently announced the complete redesign of their company website. The company states that the site has been revamped in order to provide a more user-friendly and mobile-friendly experience to customers. The company points out that with the rising number of people using mobile phones for internet browsing today, they decided that it was time to have the website design overhauled to take new developments into account.

Wayne Pedigo, a spokesperson for the company, says: "We felt that our customers deserved an easier user experience when visiting us online, which is why we decided to redo our site. It has now been designed specifically to make it easier for you to browse our products, particularly on your mobile phone."

Pedigo states that the site now loads much faster for those on cellular phones, making it easier for customers to order the vitamins and supplements that they need while on the go. The new site can be seen at https://www.healthysteps.com.

Healthy Steps LLC offers branded products produced in an FDA registered facility. The company states that all of their vitamin related products are made in the United States and from only the finest pharmaceutical grade ingredients.

"Our customers deserve the best and that's what we offer," says Pedigo. "You don't want to worry that your supplements contain ingredients that are unhealthy or that they are being produced in a dirty facility halfway across the world. Everything we make is high quality and we make it right here in the USA."

The company was founded in 1998 to provide nutritional supplements for a number of health concerns from arthritis to weight loss. Their selections include a number of supplements to support energy and joint health as well as various equine supplements, and they offer a complete multivitamin that is very popular with customers. Healthy Steps LLC stresses that their products are safe, made in clean facilities approved by the FDA and containing only high-quality raw materials. Those interested can visit the company on their newly redeveloped website to get an overview of the products that they offer or visit them on their official Facebook page at https://www.facebook.com/healthystepsLLC/.
