

In Demand Argan Shampoo By LuxeOrganix Sells Out On Amazon

June 24, 2015

June 24, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

LuxeOrganix, a health and beauty company in Mesa, Arizona recently listed their argan shampoo on Amazon. They had expected it would sell really well, but the demand exceeded even their own expectations. Within a short time, the product was completely sold out. Fresh inventory is en route to Amazon's warehouses at present, so limited quantities are once again available. As an apology, the product will be available at a discount for a limited period of time.

"When we released our argan oil shampoo and conditioner, we knew it would do well", says Christine Kominiak from LuxeOrganix. "The product is of amazing quality and offers great benefits to hair. However, we didn't think it would actually sell out this quickly! Some stock is now again available and we are offering it at 33% off for a limited time."

The argan shampoo and conditioner set is designed to help rejuvenate dry and brittle hair. The UV and Thermal Protectant with vitamins and antioxidants helps to repair hair that has been damaged by heat products and the sun. Most importantly, it achieves this without causing damage to a person's health, as the product does not contain any sulfates, parabens or sodium chloride. These ingredients have been scientifically linked to various health conditions, including cancer.

The UV absorber is designed to protect hair and prevent fading of color. The argan shampoo allows hair to be styled as usual, meaning people don't have to stop using colorants or styling products to repair their hair. Additionally, the LuxeOrganix argan shampoo and conditioner set is moisturizing, leaving hair soft, smooth and shiny. It also gives hair more volume and makes hair more manageable and easier to style.

Since the product was first listed, it received numerous positive reviews from Amazon customers. "This has been amazing for healing my dry itchy scalp and creating body", says Amber. "I love this product not only does it have argan oil that has been proven to do amazing things for your hair but it also doesn't have the harsh cancer causing chemicals. I am so glad I decided to try this product and have been completely happy with my results."

Argan oil is said to be "a celebrity's secret ingredient," with many Hollywood A-listers using it to look after their own locks. This includes Jennifer Lopez, Nicole Richie, Jessie J, Kelly Rowland and more. LuxeOrganix is giving everyday people that celebrity feeling, allowing them to have hair that looks as if it has been styled and care for by the professionals.

While inventory at Amazon www.amazon.com/LuxeOrganix-Argan-Shampoo remains limited, the company is working hard at fully replenishing their availability so that everybody will soon again be able to enjoy it. However, the discount will last only for a limited period of time.
