

Large Claw Tripod Allows For Romantic Couple Pictures During Valentine's Day

February 12, 2018

Northport, WA business Record Peak Designs Inc has launched a Valentine's Day theme on their site. They want to encourage people to capture great couple photos, worthy of being framed, during Valentine's Day. They feel that their newly designed large Claw tripod is the perfect way to achieve that.

"Valentine's Day is about spending time together and being romantic," says spokesperson for Record Peak, Robert McClelland. "What many people find, however, is that it is difficult to capture those romantic moments because, by definition, there are only two of them. A selfie is always an option, but that limits the view screen quite significantly. Our large Claw tripod, which is so lightweight that it can easily be taken along wherever you go, and that can attach to anything with its flexible legs, is the perfect way to be able to finally take those romantic couple photos. We can't wait to see what our clients will be able to come up with."

The large Claw tripod comes with a Bluetooth remote control, which ensures that couples can take the perfect photo or video without having to run into position before the time runs out. The device creates an instant tripod and, uniquely, can wrap around anything because it has flexible legs. It has also been marked as an ideal Valentine's Day gift for 2018, and it is easy to see why.

Robert McClelland adds: "You can break the mold and give your significant other this tripod this Valentine's Day. While we would never encourage people to not give roses and chocolate, adding this tripod, particularly for someone who likes to take photographs, would be a great idea."

The Claw range of products also includes a Bluetooth remote and an iPhone screen protector. Record Peak Designs Inc wants to offer products to the market that are of the highest possible quality yet simple to operate. Mostly, they want these products to enhance people's ability to take enjoyment out of life. They encourage people to RSS their website as they regularly announce the release of new products or new models, as well as share information on how the products have been used.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/19943-large-claw-tripod-allows-for-romantic-couple-pictures-during-valentine-s-day>