Naperville, Ill. - College is coming up. Students all over the country are packing and getting ready to head back to school. The Boxes Etc, an expert in shipping in Naperville, has a few tips for moving all the necessary items.

Students and parents need to remember, not everything is essential. This Naperville pack and ship company stresses this point. Especially if the trek to college is a few states away, they don't need to bring everything. They can do a lot of purchasing online or when settled in. If they still have a lot of stuff, they can always consider shipping it to their college address. This can save money in many ways.

Before individuals can even begin to ship and pack, they have to calculate the fees. It solely depends on how far the trip is and how much stuff needs to get there. Individuals could save money by flying and having things shipped in. They might also save by driving or renting a large vehicle.

To figure out these things, The Boxes Etc can help. They can come up with rates, fees, and packaged deals to help the move go smooth.

"College is a big part of life," said Michelle Zajac, owner of The Boxes Etc. "We love helping college students help and shipping their things right to them. It saves them so much stress and extra work."
