

HIV Dating Made Easy With Meetpositives.com

December 05, 2018

Meetpositives.com, an online dating website has been specifically designed and developed for people infected with HIV. The online dating scene has been detrimental for people infected with HIV. To overcome this, a community of positive singles has been created by Meetpositives.com

There are more than 1.2 million people living with HIV positive in the US alone. This means that a large chunk of the population has to suffer from several issues, dating is one of them. A person living with HIV or any other STD is often avoided by people around them, even by friends and family. This occurs because of the ignorance and irrational fear of the virus in the minds of the people. Thus, it is absolutely necessary to stay with those people with whom one can relate.

The idea of Meetpositive first appeared to deal with such issues. Meetpositive.com makes sure that those affected are in touch with people to whom they can relate. Positive singles enjoy a number of benefits when they become a member of this online dating site. Joining this online community will teach them about how they can live a better life.

There are several STD/STIs such as Gonorrhea, Chlamydia, Hepatitis B, Genital Herpes, HIV, Syphilis, Trichomoniasis and Human Papillomavirus (HPV). 50% of the infections involve people in the age group of 15-24, as this is the age when most people seek love. Unavailability of people of the same kind paves way for the spread of these infections. Meetpositive aims at lowering the infection rate by helping people meet others who share the same situation.

It is scientifically proved that living with people who share the same situation is relieving. Along with an increased social acceptance, it also allows them to be themselves. Researches indicate that when one interacts with people who understand their situation, along with increased confidence, the outlook towards life is also changed.

Having an STD shouldn't take away the privilege of having a loving relationship. The main goal of MP is to make HIV dating easy for positive singles.

Meetpositive has regularly innovated and brought innovation to its services. A member can access the site through Android, iPhone, Tablet, Desktop, or any other device. The developers have made it 100 % responsive to all devices.

The services of Meetpositive are not confined to HIV dating. It caters to the needs of a large number of people who were uncared for in the earlier times. People with Gonorrhea, Chlamydia, Hepatitis B, Genital Herpes, HIV, Syphilis, Trichomoniasis and Human Papillomavirus (HPV) can register as well.

Meetpositive.com has received positive feedback from several from all of its users. People have commended the services and ease of use of this site. Users expressed their gratitude by saying 'Meetpositive has provided us with a new start in our lives. It has made something possible which was considered impossible earlier'. A spokesperson from MP says that the overwhelming response from users as well as the general public has motivated them to work even harder.

Jack Lombardi from Meetpositive says, “Our goal is to make the world a more open place. We believe that love could bring worldwide peace and make the world a better place to live in. We would continue to improve our services and make it more accessible so that people can find love easily. Meetpositive is different from the usual dating site as it employs a different approach to match men and women. The algorithms ensure that not only people with the same interests and conditions are matched but also the relationship between them lasts longer.”

The registration process of Meetpositive is easy and fast. Anyone who has been tested positive for an STD can register by entering their personal details. Security and privacy concerns are taken utmost care of. Members can search for people who are living with the same condition(s), by distance and by their personal saved criteria. This feature saves the members from possible rejection as they are matched with people with nearly the same conditions.

For more information about Meetpositives.com those interested can take a look at the company’s website or find them on social media.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/23307-hiv-dating-made-easy-with-meetpositives-com>