

Scottsdale Wellness Center Launches YouTube Channel

December 17, 2018

Source of Health, a top wellness center in Scottsdale, AZ has recently launched their Source of Health YouTube Channel. The channel is aimed to educate people about regenerative and functional medicine and make this information more accessible to a wider audience. The wellness center is known for its high-quality, patient-centered care for pain-relief, anti-aging, body contouring, and aesthetics. The main focus of the center is on natural remedies.

“The Source of Health YouTube channel is your window to how regenerative and functional medicine works. Specifically, how we use these natural medical therapies in restoring the health of our patients,” according to Dr. Steven Sorr of Source of Health. Dr. Sorr is the center's resident doctor licensed in naturopathic medicine and with years of experience in functional and regenerative medicine, as well as training in Bio-identical Hormone Replacement. He first got interested in regenerative medicine after his own back injury was healed by treating the root cause instead of using drugs to deal with the pain and discomfort.

According to the company, regenerative medicine is the use of advanced non-surgical therapies that make use of a body's own healing mechanisms. By using these remedies, the body's natural process of healing from within is stimulated, making people look and feel their best naturally. Source of Health wellness center uses common regenerative therapies such as regenerative stem cell therapy, prolotherapy, PRP injections, hormone replacement therapy, among others.

The company is also big advocates of functional medicine. These are treatments focused on helping the body and its organs achieve optimal functioning, with the use of holistic or alternative therapies. “Our health care approach in treating pain and enhancing aesthetics is holistic and customized according to the needs of our clients. We can do this by employing advanced diagnostics and testing, and recommending supplements and prescriptions when needed to achieve tangible results in the most non-invasive ways possible,” said Dr. Sorr. The naturopathic doctor Scottsdale also emphasizes the need to treat the underlying causes of diseases and not just the symptoms. This saves patients both time and money and gives them the sense of wellness sooner. This can be achieved aside from the diagnostics tests mentioned, but also by proper consultations done by the doctors. An honest and open communication between patients and doctors is essential.

Ross Curran, a client of Source of Health, has this to say about the center's services, “Dr. Sorr stands out in a sea of mediocrity when it comes to physicians, both conventional and Naturopathic doctors. He cares about my health and spends time listening and asking probing questions to get to the root of (the) issue. I have a chronic lower back issue and the therapies and treatments he has used on me have made a tremendous positive difference in how I function from day to day. He uses regenerative medicine that helps the body heal naturally.” Mr. Curran reviewed the center on Google, giving it five stars out of five.

Another review is from Brittany Gaines, who suffers from an autoimmune disease. Ms. Gaines says, “Dr. Steven Sorr’s bedside manner is impeccable, his evaluations thorough, and his treatments effective. Since I started seeing Dr. Steven and taking the suggested supplements I have felt a change for the better. There are no more sleepless nights, my autoimmune disease has become manageable, and my energy has me shining like the Arizona sun! I now have a Physician I trust and would recommend his services.” Ms. Gaines also gave Source of Health five stars out of five on Google.

Source of Health offers a myriad of services that can make patients look and feel their best. They have the Exilis Ultra and Z Wave Therapy used to treat wrinkles, skin laxity, and stubborn cellulite. This non-invasive procedure is a non-surgical alternative to a facelift and tummy tuck and can reshape the face and body. They also offer platelet-rich plasma (PRP) for hair restoration and facial rejuvenation, Botox and dermal fillers, and laser for aesthetic improvement. Aside from procedures to make clients look better, they also offer services that would help them feel better. Services such as stem cell therapy for joint pain, PRP injections for chronic musculoskeletal pain, and other advanced natural therapies. The center even offers nutrition and lifestyle counseling session, underlying the company's holistic approach towards healing and wellness.

Interested parties can check out Source of Health's complete services on offer by visiting the company's website. They can also book an appointment through the site as well as send any inquiries about what the company can do to improve their current health situation.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/23577-scottsdale-wellness-center-launches-youtube-channel>