

The Permanent Makeup Artist School 3D Brows Academy Offers 5-day Training

January 03, 2019

The permanent makeup artist school, 3D Brows Academy, is excited to provide this training to its students. The school, based in Utah, lets students become certified in 5 days. The school's campus, located at 949 E 12400 S in Draper, is proud to help students achieve their certifications in such a short time.

The school's training lets students learn proper makeup techniques. They offer their hands-on and their online training in addition to a combination hands-on/online package. The demand for microblading services continues to grow across the US and, since the supply of poorly educated microblade artists is also increasing, there is a huge need for qualified artists. 3D Brows founder and head instructor Patty Willardsen said, "Remember, becoming a microblading artist is like any other life lesson, you only get out what you put into it. This is your future and cutting corners with quick, cheap and easy training will only cost you time & money." Prospective students can get more details by calling (877) 332-7691.

Patty Willardsen, a daughter of the famous Walt Disney artist David Willardsen, combined her years of experience in skin care and pigmentation into a comprehensive training program. The school says that because they are family owned, keep their classes small, and don't outsource the training to other instructors, it allows Patty Willardsen the chance to spend one-on-one time with students so that she can adapt to the student's needs. Thus they are able to build a bond with each student so they become part of the 3D Brows family. The school has an open door policy for their students, which together with the online support groups, provides students with any help they may need. The instructors even give their personal cell phone numbers to students to help them along. Willardsen said, "If you plan on becoming a "great" at anything, you're most likely going to need a good mentor. After you have been trained and get some experience it's likely you're going to come across a situation or need advice. For this reason, we provide our students with ongoing support with our online student forum community or by phone, email, FaceTime, and in person."

The microblading classes are designed for non-experienced and experienced microbladers alike. The microblading fundamentals course combines art principles with the expertise of Patty Willardsen and her instructors. The students get to work on at least 2 of their own models from start to finish. The online training is based on this fundamentals course and lesson topics are provided in multiple formats such as instructional videos, visual examples, and assignments along with years of personal experience with client documentation. The online course includes unlimited access to training materials and their online training student community. The combined course includes both the 5-day hands-on and the online training so students earn a certificate with 100 combined training hours. The school says that insurance rates typically lower when a student can show 100+ hours of education. Course add-ons are also offered which include a shading course and a 3D lash lift course.

And the Facebook reviews are positive. They include Ursula Bindrup's 5-star review in which she said, "I recently finished up a 1 on 1 advanced training class with Patty for microblading and can't begin to express how vital this class has been for my business! I can't wait to continue my educational journal with Patty and 3D Brows Academy.” Cheri Gibson Trujillo said, “I am an M.A. and just looking to take a refresher course. This business, 3D Brows Academy is seriously one of the best Microblading training schools in the U.S. Have you checked out any of their YouTube videos, if not I highly suggest you do. Keep smiling!”
