

Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus Announces Launch of Q&A Page

January 14, 2019

In a bid to assist new and existing parents of their students, top Montessori school in Columbus has recently launched a Q&A page on their website. Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus of Columbus, OH has announced that parents can now check the school's website for any common concerns and questions they might have. This new initiative is in line with Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus's drive to put parents and students first.

According to School Director Tamyé Crutchfield, the Q&A page at <https://polaris.villamontessoripreschool.com/qa/> is easily accessible to anyone who is interested in Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus and the Montessori method in general. “We understand parents have a lot of questions regarding the methods we use. Such as the Montessori curriculum and the Reggio inspired programs. We present our answers in a clear and understandable way to help them reach an informed and correct decision. Our children's education is an important part of their formation. And we want to assure the parents that we hold that responsibility with the greatest honor and care.” Ms. Crutchfield has more than 24 years experience in early childhood education, getting her degree from Northwest Florida State University. She holds a Montessori certification in toddler program, as well as a member of the American Montessori Society and the North American Reggio Emilia Alliance. “We are committed to provide our students with the best methods available and give them the right educational experience,” she added.

Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus offers a full-day kindergarten curriculum that incorporates learning units in language, math, art, science, geography, history, and cultural studies. The low student to teacher ratio ensures a more personalized teaching environment. The school implements a pure Montessori Method which allows children to work independently and enhance their joy of self-discovery. “We feel that children should delight in childhood, that the school day should include laughter and the buzz of creativity. We want students to love school and the process of learning. Maria Montessori’s idea “that education is not a chore, but a joyous exploration of life’s mysteries” is the most important lesson that we hope to teach our children,” said Ms. Crutchfield. Some of the benefits of an early Montessori childhood education include independence and self-confidence. Aside from the Montessori method, the school also employs the Reggio approach to early education. This curriculum fosters critical thinking skills in children by giving importance to the cognitive process of understanding, and not just the results. It also allows children to use different ways of expressing themselves; avenues like dramatic play, dance, writing, and even mathematics. Reggio approach understands that different students have different styles in communicating. The school's program offerings can be accessed at <https://polaris.villamontessoripreschool.com>.

The school has gotten some positive feedback from parents over the years. From Cedar W., whose child was enrolled in Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus since it opened, "Diversity is important to our family and VMP celebrates and teaches diversity and inclusion. At VMP, each child is celebrated for their individuality and the strengths and contributions they bring to the community. Our children have excelled at their own pace and in their own way with the gentle direction of the Montessori method. There are many childcare and preschool options in our area, but the benefits of a Montessori based education have far exceeded my expectations for our children. I encourage all parents looking for an early learning environment that values critical thinking, self-direction and sense of community to explore Villa Montessori Polaris." According to Milena I., another parent of the school, "So thankful for Villa Montessori in Polaris. One of the only authentic Montessori schools in the Columbus area. Everyone is so nurturing and loving. They know how to calm even the most anxious parents like myself. The teachers are super attentive and take the time to know each child. Their likes and dislikes. Their needs. That was huge for me. Ms. Tamyie and Ms. Crissy are absolutely amazing at running the school. Super hands on with the teachers and students. I am so grateful to have found this school! As nervous as I was to leave my sweet boy in the care of others, I cannot be more at ease leaving him at Villa!"

Parents in the Columbus, OH area are encouraged to check the school's official website and official Facebook page <https://www.facebook.com/villamontessoripolaris/> for more information on the Montessori method and how Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus can help in their children's education.
