

New Zealand Company Announces Qualified Piano Movers In Auckland

January 23, 2019

Office Movers Auckland has announced that they now provide piano moving services from trusted and professional movers. The company states that they are experienced in moving heavier items such as pianos and pools and that they carefully get those items from their original to their new location without incident.

Mark Barber, owner of the company says, "When consumers need piano movers Auckland, we hope that they will call on us. We recently moved a spa pool for the famous rugby player, Jerome Kaino, and we will treat all of our customers in the same caring and professional way that we treat our celebrity customers."

Barber states that the company has years of experience in office and residential moves, including those that had spas, swimming pools and larger furnishings like pianos to move. He states that they have a fleet of vehicles that are ready to get started quickly on the move and that all of their movers are certified moving technicians who are experienced in their jobs. Barber continues to add that all of their staff is friendly and professional on every job, and he states that all staff members are thoroughly checked before they are hired to ensure that they are trustworthy and possess the knowledge of moving larger items that is needed for pianos and similar structures.

"We are a professional team of spa pool movers," says Barber. "We always go out of our way to ensure that our customers are completely satisfied with our services. We can pack up those heavy items and secure them for movement before we transport them from your home or office to your new location. We always ensure that all items are fully secured and protected before we begin moving them."

Barber states that many moving companies charge extra for larger items such as pianos. He states that his company offers a quote to customers for the cost of the move and that they do not add in any extra fees or costs simply because the customer may have heavier items to move. He states that their moving specialists are all in good physical condition, which is required when heavier items are being transported.

The Auckland owned and operated moving company states that they always attempt to offer their customers the most affordable prices for their moving needs. The company provides services to both residential and commercial customers, moving homes and offices as needed. Barber says that it is a given that pianos require extra attention when moving them. Because of their bulk and their sensitivity, special care must be taken when moving them from one location to another to ensure that the finish is left unscratched and that the keys are protected. Jostling around a piano or bumping it during moving could cause damage to the way the piano functions. At the very least it could cause the piano to become untuned, which would require professional service to get it into tune again. Barber says that his technicians all know how to carefully and properly prepare even the most expensive pianos for moving. They move them from one location to another without damage and without worries of needing to retune the piano when it reaches its new destination.

Barber states that his team is happy to provide a quote for any moving service that customers may need. The quote is a no obligation, free quote that lets home and business owners know exactly what their move will cost. The company also has a website where those who are interested can learn more about their specific services, their experience with moving pianos, spa pools and other larger items and more information on their costs. Those who are interested can contact the moving company through their website or directly by email or phone, or visit them in their media room to see other news that they have released in the past regarding their new services and new service areas.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/24609-new-zealand-company-announces-qualified-piano-movers-in-auckland>