

Customers Can Now Buy Organic CBD Massage Oil Online

February 11, 2019

Alpha Therapeutics LLC is a lab tested organic CBD manufacturer that aims to ensure that every physician and primary caregiver they serve prescribes the right Cannabidiol product to every patient. Using organic, fair trade raw materials that are triplicate tested, the company produces oil tinctures and healing balms of the highest quality.

Cannabidiol is one of over 150 phytocannabinoids found in a number of hemp strains, as well as all cannabis plant strains. CBD does not have any psychoactive effects, and thus is legal and widely used in the production of medicines used to treat a number of conditions, including chronic pain, PTSD, anxiety disorder, depression, diabetes, and many other conditions. Some patients also claim to have achieved positive results using CBD to treat all manner of ailments, for which CBD treatments have not yet been tested and determined to be effective. Alpha Therapeutics advised customers to, “speak with your health care practitioner regarding how you may benefit from cannabidiol.” Hemp oil, besides CBD, includes CBD(a), CBG, CBN, Omega 3 & 6 essential fatty acids. It also contains minerals like iron, calcium, magnesium, and vitamins A, B, C, and E, and beta-Carotene. Alpha Therapeutics further asserted that, “full-spectrum CBD hemp oil can be a complete daily dietary supplement.”

Regarding the legality of Cannabidiol, Alpha Therapeutics said that, “In the US, CBD derived from hemp is considered a dietary supplement, and is legal to purchase and ship across the country. Our hemp oil is an imported hemp product and contains less than 0.3% THC by weight. It is exempt from the Federal Controlled Substances Act prohibition on marijuana.” However, hemp oil laws are quite different around the world, and users are advised to look up the laws surrounding the use of CBD products in their countries before attempting to purchase such products. Alpha Therapeutics has also stated that their products do not contain enough of the psychoactive compound THC to cause the “high,” associated with marijuana, in users of their own products.

Alpha Therapeutics’ products, being dietary supplements and not actual medicines, do not require that users have any sort of approval from a doctor to purchase and use them. However, patients are advised by the company to consult a medical professional. Despite the possible positive effects of CBD products, they are still considered dietary supplements, and cannot be endorsed as cures for specific ailments. Patients are, however, encouraged to read the many studies published online that discuss the positive effects of CBD. Once they are assured of its properties, it is a simple process to then buy organic CBD massage oil online or purchase an ingestible product of their preference.

The amount needed, and how it is applied or ingested, is left to the preferences of the patient themselves. When asked, “Which CBD hemp oil product is right for me,” Alpha Therapeutics responds that it, “will depend on your own personal preference, desired CBD quantities, and preferred means of application. Typically, CBD products fall under one of two categories: topicals, which are applied externally, or dietary supplements, which are taken internally.”

Alpha Therapeutics gets its hemp from European farms with a history of hemp farming that spans generations. Hemp farming is illegal in the US, but importing it from outside the country for the production of Alpha Therapeutics' CBD products is not.

Alpha Therapeutics' CBD products are differentiated from the ones found in common grocery stores by the fact that those found in grocery stores are usually made using hemp seed oil, which contains only small amounts of CBD. While hemp seed oil has been shown to be of great nutritional value, the relatively low concentration of CBD makes it less effective as a CBD supplement. The CBD hemp oil used by Alpha Therapeutics, however, is drawn from the stalks of specific hemp strains and offers much higher concentrations of CBD.

Clients who wish to buy pharmaceutical grade CBD products may do so on Alpha Therapeutics' webpage. They may also contact Geoff Dada of Alpha Therapeutics LLC for more information.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/25059-customers-can-now-buy-organic-cbd-massage-oil-online>