

Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus Hosts Successful Parent Appreciation Breakfast

February 06, 2019

Columbus, Ohio based Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus is pleased to announce that they recently hosted a successful Parent Appreciation Breakfast on their premises. See more here: <https://bit.ly/2RzSKd2>. Held at the end of January, this event helped accomplish the nursery and childcare centre's mission of supporting their children's curiosity with innovative learning and joy. It also gave parents an opportunity to embrace some of the finer points of parenthood within their child's learning environment.

The children played an important role in the event: they assisted their teachers in putting together the meals for the Breakfast. Working side by side, they carefully selected, chopped, and portioned a variety of fruits and other snacks that made for a simple, yet delicious, breakfast for all their guests. While the event itself was as successful as everyone had hoped it would be, most of the love, learning, and love of learning, went into its preparation. Of course, both parents and children alike got to enjoy the fruit of those labours as well.

Growing minds are always bustling with activity and the need to learn, to reach out and grasp the world as it is presented to them, said a spokesperson for the preschool. She continued, "This is why the Villa Montessori Preschool Columbus believes it is paramount that a child's education has to be guided in their early years with a combination of classical and hands-on learning, while gently shaping their emotional growth as well. Events such as the Parent Appreciation Breakfast can build towards this manifold purpose.”

Parents play a significant role in their children’s educational and emotional development, but it is also important to continually reassure the parents themselves that their child is making good progress in the best possible surroundings whenever possible. The Breakfast helped fulfil this by encouraging parents to explore the learning environment that was lovingly crafted for their children, showcasing both the preschool’s attention to passive guidance, as well as the valuable interpersonal lessons taught to their children in it.

As proudly stated on the preschool’s website, “Our Montessori classrooms are simply and beautifully designed to inspire curiosity, promote hands-on learning experiences, and build self-confidence! After all, the preschool years set the foundation for a lifetime of learning. Our beautiful environments feature comfortable spaces to learn, collaborate, and grow.” Students at the preschool “are empowered to play and learn at their own pace, guided by their own interests.” The classroom itself is considered a ‘third teacher,’ subtly designed to let children independently explore the easily accessible materials and projects within it, and develop their own interests.

This ethos extends to the Reggio-inspired playground, designed to encourage creative play. It also serves as an outdoor classroom for Art and Science, helping to add zest and variety to a child’s learning experience.
