

Discrete & Confidential Hard Drive Recovery Delights Customers

February 08, 2019

Irvine, CA based Hard Drive Recovery Associates is delighted to announce that they have received two new 5-star reviews on Google, maintaining their exemplary 5-star score across all Google Reviews. “We are proud to offer safe, effective data recovery, at the best price possible for any hard drive, including RAID servers,” said Jack Edwards of Hard Drive Recovery Associates.

Hard Drive Recovery Associates is a specialist hard disk data recovery service provider, working across the US since 1992. They offer Free 24 hour Hard Disk support for all computer brands and all manufacturers. “We know that 9 out of 10 customers refer to the online reviews before deciding to visit or employ a business. We deliver the best possible service to every customer, because we know that the data that can be lost to hard drive errors is important to them,” said Edwards.

Kelly West gave Hard Drive Recovery Associates a 5-Star Review on Google: “I had an SSD drive failure, and figured I'd see if anyone could repair it. I spoke to Louis with HDRA, and he hooked me up. Restored and recovered the entire SSD and sent it to me via FedEx! This is one no-muss, no fuss hard drive recovery service! Check them out!”

While a hard disk failure can occur when used in normal operating circumstances, exposure to water, fire, strong magnetic fields, a sharp impact, or environmental contamination can also lead to a crash. Data corruption, disruption or destruction of the hard drive's master boot record, and malware can also make the hard drive inoperable. “Even though Apple products are generally considered fool-proof and safe from hackers, we have seen that they are just as vulnerable as most Windows PCs sold in today's market,” noted Edwards.

Leona Miller's 5-Star Review on Google was enthusiastic: “After talking to a few different shops, I chose HDRA to provide my data recovery. Not only was Louis very helpful when attempting to clarify my overall hard drive failure situation, he also continued to update me as the recovery was completed. I'd never used a hard drive recovery service before, and was glad Louis and HDRA were there to help!”

Hard Drive Recovery Associates has been using social media to share tips and information to help everyone learn more about protecting themselves from such hard drive failures, and has been recently featured on Digital Journal regarding the importance of disaster recovery—which can make all the difference in the event of a breakdown. “Even a 1% hard drive failure rate across the industry may be a catastrophe to the owner of the unique applications and information stored on it. Backblaze's assessment put the industry average at 1.27% at the end of September 2018,” stated Edwards.

This is backed up by Yelp Reviewer Urena C. from Manhattan, New York, who also gave Drive Recovery Associates a 5-star evaluation: “I was kind of stunned by how low the quote was, but I agreed and we went ahead. Three days later I had all of my photos, including ones I didn't even know existed!"

Hard Drive Recovery Associates offer a full range of services to fix hard disk errors, and a suite of recovery options, such as Laptop Data Recovery, MAC Data Recovery, and RAID Recovery. Data security is a key cornerstone of their services. "We consider privacy to be one of the most critical responsibilities of any data recovery company, and we treat every client's data with the utmost discretion and confidentiality. We can provide a free evaluation to customer, who can request one either by calling our toll free number or completing a form on our website, said Edwards.

Hard Drive Recovery Associates has also set up a Google site to help people gain information about hard disk recovery services that they might need. Engineers at Hard Drive Recovery Associates are experienced with almost all kinds of hard drive recovery situations, including SSD drives, iPhones, Macs, and RAID 5, 6, and 10 arrays. The company is also capable of recovering data for hard drives that have been damaged by fire or water.

Those looking for more information may contact Jack Edwards, Hard Drive Recovery Associates, Irvine, CA. Further contact details can found on their website, and visitors can send a message 24/7 using the included contact form.

Source: <http://www.pressadvantage.com/story/25233-discrete-confidential-hard-drive-recovery-delights-customers>