July 16, 2019

Evan Roberts of Dependable Homebuyers is producing video blogs and publishing articles regularly on the official website of the company to educate buyers, sellers and agents. The real estate market in San Antonio is not homogenous. There are marked differences in various factors and conditions among neighborhoods. Different types of properties are also faring in distinct ways. There is no way to generalize the entire real estate market, whether for buyers or sellers. Agents who have been operating in the market for decades are aware of the realities on the ground. Many buyers and sellers are not. Roberts and his team at the We Buy Houses company are making a conscious attempt to help buyers and sellers get familiar with the challenges so they can find what they are looking for.

The type of home, its location and current condition, the convenience of access or lack thereof, amenities and other attractions in the proximity are some of the quintessential factors that play a major role in determining the fate of a property. Its prospects are also driven by the price points. The real estate market in San Antonio does not undergo transformations in a generalized way either. Some neighborhoods may witness an upswing. Some may record modest growth. There are times when certain types of properties are in demand. Dynamic changes happen all the time and buyers as well as sellers should know about these before they set out to seek an ideal deal. Evan Roberts has spent years learning the local real estate market in San Antonio. His video blogs and articles highlight real issues experienced by buyers and sellers. These are specific to the market conditions in and around the city. For over six years now, his company Dependable Homebuyers has been purchasing houses directly from owners. His team has bought all types of houses in as-is condition and worked on those properties so they are desirable to potential buyers. The nationwide real estate investment firm continues to do this but is now also simplifying the quests of buyers and sellers with information and tools. The video blogs, articles and web based tools can be accessed by one and all. The invaluable information can easily solve pressing problems. Sellers can find out how much their properties are truly worth so they can peg the right ask price. Buyers can learn about the types of properties available, also if and how they should make a move when they shortlist a few.

Roberts and his team publish analytical reports, highlight trends and constantly provide developing news through the blog and official website. Sellers can use this information and so can buyers. Agents too can find such information useful in their quest of selling a property or assisting a buyer to find their dream house. Dependable Homebuyers continues to buy houses from sellers.
