

Drug Rehab In Denver Colorado Provides Safe Space For Recovery From Addiction

January 14, 2020

Glendale, Colorado based addiction treatment center Golden Peak Recovery is pleased to announce that they provide a safe space complemented by professional help for people who wish to recover from substance abuse.

Bruce Santiago, Clinical Representative and a representative for the company, says, "There has been a rise in recreational use of Marijuana in Colorado, and while that in itself is not too bad, people are finding ways to become addicted to other harder, controlled substances. Golden Peak Recovery understands that no one is above the influence of addiction, and that the recovery experience is unique and different for each and every person. Our goal is to guide all of our clients through their first steps into a brighter, substance-free future. We want to help our clients find their confidence and self-assurance. To that end, Golden Peak Recovery relies on evidence-based and trauma-informed treatment programs to ensure each client is fully prepared to transition to the next level of care."

"As a premier client-centered provider of alcohol and drug rehab in Denver," says Santiago, "we recognize the key to true healing lies in addressing the mental and emotional sources of substance abuse. We dive deep with you so that you can transform your mental model and perception of yourself. We focus on helping all of our clients break the cycles of drug and alcohol abuse so that they can start a clean and sober life."

Santiago says, "I have to emphasize that overcoming substance abuse and addiction is as much a mental and emotional journey as it is a physical one. No matter what stage of the recovery process our clients are currently in, our compassionate and experienced team of behavioral health and medical professionals are dedicated to their individual success. We take the time to learn each client's history and goals in order to build a treatment plan that will take their mental, emotional, and physical needs into account. This, we believe, is the best way to guide them towards their sobriety."

Gold Peak Recovery provides a number of comprehensive behavioral healthcare programs, which can further be personalized for the specific needs of each client. The list of services provided by the company include sub-acute detox, residential treatment, partial hospitalization programs, intensive outpatient programs and aftercare planning (including housing arrangements, securing ongoing therapy and counseling, finding local support groups, creating a relapse prevention and crisis management plan and assistance transitioning into IOP/OP levels of care).

Golden Peak Recovery claims their dedication to recovery goes beyond completion of the detox process. The company assures their community that they are committed to their clients' long-term success, providing client-centered care throughout each stage of outpatient treatment. Santiago says, "We know that overcoming substance abuse is a journey that will take a long while, so we provide the support and guidance necessary to achieve lifelong sobriety."

Golden Peak Recovery's dedication to their clients' recovery and welfare has garnered them a highly positive reputation in the community—the company currently maintains a 4-star rating on Google. Steve Marcus says in his recent five-star review, “When I needed to get my brother help for his drinking they were able to act quickly and get to him the very next day. It's been 3 months since he left the program and I have my old brother back.”

In another five-star review, Ricardo Diaz says that the facility employs an, “Awesome program” and has, “truly amazing staff that actually treat you like a human instead of just another number.” Meanwhile, a Google Local Guide for Colorado, Greg McGinnis, makes his sentiments known with a five-star review that simply says, “They gave me another chance at a new life. Just call.”

Bruce Santiago adds, “If you feel you or any of your loved ones need help, reach out. Just one phone call or an email can make all the difference in the long-term because substance addiction can ruin your life. At Golden Peak Recovery, we stand ready to help anyone who needs it.”
