Fairfax, VA based Roof.net is pleased to share a new online review that was posted by a highly satisfied customer. No stranger to glowing reviews, the company reportedly delivers a roofing service that is unmatched in the area. View their location, learn other details regarding their services, and read the full review by customer Sam Glaser here: <https://goo.gl/maps/gdqKpbZf7yNfh3QWA>.

Glaser reports that, "I got a good price and a comprehensive roof replacement from Ken. Scheduling was easy and the crew was able to show up the day after I accepted the proposal. They arrived to do the work on time and completely replaced my townhome roof within 7-8 hours. Ken had promised that if the attic fan needed to be moved down, he would to that at no charge, and in the end he was required to replace a plywood plank to do it and covered the cost himself. I was very happy with the work and would definitely recommend this company."

In an example of their dedication to customer service and the company's overall commitment to ensuring that their work meets their high standards, Roof.net Owner Ken Briesemeister often responds to his customers' feedback. Replying to Glaser, he says, "I'm glad you like your new roof and now you have an attic fan that protects your home against heat, moisture and condensation. Everything came out great and now you have a roof that will last 25-30 years!" While Briesemeister and his staff keep a watchful eye on customer reviews in order to address any critique or stay up to date with any jobs that need revisiting, the sheer positive nature of their reviews indicate that this is more a precautionary measure than a necessity.

The company boasts a perfect 5-Star score on the Google platform, where Glaser left their review, an aggregate calculated from nearly 400 reviewers who have left comments that praise the company just as highly, if not more. For instance, reviewer Nader Hanna recently posted that every customer who needs a roof should, “Go with this company, period. Ken, the President, was very professional, answered all my questions very promptly, and gave me a quick proposal and an amazing price. The whole transaction was very smooth and extremely quick. He kept me informed promptly with every single move and action. As soon as the job was done, I got an email with my payments and all new roof pictures. I would deal with him again on my other house and would recommend him to anyone who wants a roof job taken care of.” Briesemeister responded to this review as well.

While those who wish to contact the company directly may do so by calling their customer service line, customers with active social media account may also use their preferred online platforms to reach out to the owner directly.
