

Alpha Therapeutics is a White Label CBD Oil Manufacturer

October 23, 2019

Phoenix, Arizona based Alpha Therapeutics LLC has announced that they are a white label CBD oil manufacturer, providing quality CBD oil products for physicians and other companies to rebrand and sell under their own private label. The organic CBD products produced by Alpha Therapeutics are triplicate tested by third party labs to ensure the greatest possible quality of product. Alpha Therapeutics has the knowledge and experience to create a wide range of high quality CBD based products for any company looking to make a specific CBD product for sale. The company is able to make all kinds of products with potentially challenging formations, such as beauty related CBD products, so they are devoted to helping their clients design the perfect product for their company's needs, and can do so without sacrificing their quality manufacturing standards, so that companies looking to sell custom CBD products can be sure the CBD products they are selling are as good as they can be.

Alpha Therapeutics is committed to sourcing the best quality hemp for their CBD, which includes using plants that are organic and fair trade, and having everything tested by outside labs to verify product quality. They ensure that the process for formulating products for clients includes creative design, rapid development, a guarantee of potency, and accurate labeling of the products. They watch over the entire process of plant growth, harvest and manufacture to be sure that there are no harmful substances introduced during any phase of the product creation process, as the quality of CBD oil can be compromised at any stage of fertilization, pest control, and other parts of plant growth. Potential CBD oil manufacturers in Colorado may also be interested in the work of Alpha Therapeutics, as they are able to produce CBD oil products for private labeling companies across the United States.

CBD, or Cannabidiol, is just one of many cannabinoids found in the cannabis plant. Cannabinoids interact with the body in various ways, some of which can be therapeutic, so many people are reaching to CBD to aid in supporting them through a variety of medical issues. CBD oil manufacturers such as Alpha Therapeutics, which specialize in industrial hemp, are an excellent source of CBD products as industrial hemp legally cannot contain more than 0.3% THC, the substance in cannabis that is psychoactive and produces a high. The CBD oil produced by Alpha Therapeutics also includes some other cannabinoids, such as CBG and CBN. Additionally, they contain Omega 3 and Omega 6 fatty acids and are fortified with various vitamins and minerals to form a daily dietary supplement. The company also produces a variety of topical CBD products, such as salves and massage oils, and a number of CBD products formulated specifically for pets, who have also been thought to benefit from use of CBD.

In addition to wholesale CBD oil manufacturing, Alpha Therapeutics provides lots of information on their website about the potential benefits and uses of CBD based products. This includes a lot of information about how customers can be assured of the quality of their products. One measure the company takes to keep customers informed is by having a unique QR code on every package that links to the batch test results of the product inside so physicians, patients and other customers can know that the product has been tested and is of good quality. They are even willing to custom formulate products for individual customers, allowing customers to choose exactly what kind of CBD product they want. The options allow customers to change concentration, size, which terpenes will be included in their product (b-Caryophyllene, Myrcene, Limonene, Humulene or none at all), whether to include CBD, CBDA or both, a CBD isolate or a full spectrum product, and what kind of carrier oil to use for the product, be it MCT or Hemp Seed oil.
