

Winter Drone Footage Captures Scenic Birds-Eye View of Lake Dillon in Colorado

December 06, 2019

Sean Ozz, owner of World of Ozz, has posted video footage taken by the DJI Mavic Zoom drone as it flew in below freezing weather over Lake Dillon in Dillon, Colorado. Sean Ozz has posted this video on his YouTube channel to show the unique views taken by the drone of the steam coming off the lake and other features of nature that can only be seen from the air. This footage shows how a drone can offer a unique perspective that can never be captured with a regular camera. It provides a birds-eye view of the wonders of nature like the scenic views of the trees, mountains, and lake.

In a previous video, he also used the DJI Mavic Zoom to capture what Lake Dillon looks like from the air during the first snow of the 2019 to 2020 season. That was his first attempt to fly the drone over the lake in freezing weather. The latest video that he has posted was his second attempt to fly the drone to capture scenic views of the lake and its surroundings in below freezing weather.

Sean Ozz himself says, "This video footage is just one of the many that can be found in my YouTube channel.
