South Arlington Smiles, a dental office based in Arlington, Texas, is proud to announce that they have acquired a new piece of equipment that will significantly improve the quality of their X-Ray imaging, allowing for a more accurate pre-surgical assessment of a patient's condition. The newest addition to South Arlington Smiles' equipment is a CBCT machine. The CBCT is known to be the gold standard in X-Ray imaging, providing pictures of the best quality that allow for a better and more accurate assessment of the patient's dental condition. It is most commonly used as a pre-surgical tool in procedures such as dental implants and various other oral surgery treatments where a simple glance would not be enough to identify the underlying problems troubling a patient.

Dr. Talon Davis, owner and lead dentist at South Arlington Smiles, states, "While this was a significant financial investment, as this is a high-end piece of dental equipment that ranges anywhere from $90,000 to $150,000, the improvement of the images should be enough to make it worthwhile since we will no longer be limited by the quality of the X-Rays we can produce. At South Arlington Smiles, we are committed to the use of modern technology to expand our capabilities, so we see equipment such as this CBCT machine—which will allow us to treat patients with the most complete information possible—as a necessary investment for the sake of our patients and the overall improvement of our practice."

The CBCT takes up to 600 different images as it scans around the head of the patient. Put together, these images give a complete 3-Dimensional view of the teeth, jaw, and other bones that would otherwise be difficult (if not impossible) to see, allowing for better diagnosis and assessment of the patient's situation before moving onto surgery. Dr. Davis adds that the acquisition of this piece of equipment will have a significant impact on the patient's experience, helping improve their quality of life.

He states, "This state-of-the-art CBCT machine allows for same-day implant placement in addition to finding new solutions to problems that can't be seen on normal X-Rays. Overall, our patients will have at least one fewer appointment to make, allowing us to treat their condition sooner than we could have otherwise."

The commitment that is shown by Dr. Davis and his office have always been a core foundation of the office's services. They are known within the community for keeping their patient's best interests at heart and working hard to educate them where necessary. The attention they pay their patients is what makes South Arlington Smiles one of Texas' best-rated dental care offices, according to the office. They currently enjoy an outstanding review score of 4.9 out of 5 Stars on the Google platform.

Through this space, patients share their experience with Dr. Davis and express their gratitude for the personalized attention they were given. A recent testimonial written by Ben Nicholson states, "Liz and Becky at the front desk were very nice and helpful. Briana did a really good job with my X-Rays and cleaning. Painless and quick. I needed a filling replaced, and Dr. Davis and Jeanna had some time so they knocked it out real quick. I did not even feel the shot from Dr. Davis. I've been in the chair for all sorts of reasons throughout my life, and that was by far the most painless shot I've had. Work was done super quick, and I was on my way."
