

Leading Property Painting Company Provides Exterior And Interior Painting Services During Lockdown

April 13, 2020

Walla Painting, based in Carmel, Indiana, is reaching out to share that they are able to undertake exterior painting and other work during the lockdown set in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Notably, they reassure customers that they can deliver their services without any personal contact. The company takes all safety concerns seriously, and every decision they make is designed to protect both their staff as well as their customers.

Jonathan Walla, Owner of Walla Painting, says, “Customers return to Walla Painting time and time again to take on their home improvement projects. Some are frustrated that their projects have been delayed due to the lockdown. We’ve had many requests regarding what we can offer at this time, and so we have sought to provide essential maintenance as well as make provisions where we can work safely. Anyone who has been putting off exterior painting, be that for the whole house, essential window and entry care and so on can rest assured that we will keep providing the professional service they need. We can undertake exterior painting projects as well as other projects where the property is vacant and it is safe to carry out our work.”

Exterior Painting is important for any property. It is more than just the aesthetic appeal which can add value to any property, for instance—ensuring that the exterior has a proper protective coating to prevent weathering and rotting is essential. As many property owners have delayed or forgotten to have essential exterior painting carried out prior to the lockdown taking effect, their failure to attend to the matter at hand as soon as possible could lead to more expenses down the road.

Digital Journal, an international news site, recently published an article that highlighted Walla Painting for earning the prestigious Angie’s List Super Service Award for the 10th year running. In the article, Johnathan Walla says, “We want to thank each and every one of our customers who have taken the time to leave their honest feedback. Our small team here strives to do their best for each customer, and we love to see how much our hard work is appreciated. As a small, local business, we know the value of helping our communities thrive while retaining the Midwestern friendliness and professional excellence that sets us apart.”

The article highlights that the company can help those moving into a new home carry out a complete residential painting (though new considerations will have to be made to account for the current crisis). If the house has been vacant, and will be so throughout the project, Walla Painting can also provide a free estimate for taking on that project as well in addition to exterior painting. They will take the necessary measures to ensure that there is no personal contact between their staff and/or anyone else on the property.

Jonathan Walla continues, “Throughout the lockdown, we will help everyone who wants our assistance with exterior painting or other projects, wherever possible. As the lockdown will be in place for the foreseeable future, you should also feel free to ask us about pre-planning your next project. We have been using video conferencing platforms to help those who want to get a head start on their property’s paint jobs. Whether it’s just refreshing the kitchen cabinets or lining us up to completely refresh your home, you can rest assured that we will provide the same high quality service that has kept us at the top of review rankings. We intend to earn the right to be there for decades to come.”

Walla Painting is a fully licensed and insured painting contractor whose outstanding reputation has been built on completing projects to their customers’ satisfaction. Walla’s veteran painters are meticulous when it comes to prep work, no matter how tricky it is to get it perfect. The company uses eco-friendly techniques and products that are manufactured by the most reputable brands in the industry.

Even though strict procedures must be in place to undertake any work, those who would like to request a quote from Walla Painting can do so online when they visit their website for more information.
