It is not just Google Maps where the company receives positive reviews, however, as many more such reviews can be found on Backyard Bug Patrol’s Facebook pages at <https://www.facebook.com/BackyardBugPatrol> where it has achieved a perfect 5 out of 5 review rating.

Backyard Bug Patrol offers a full range of pest control services to both home and business owners. At this time of the year many homeowners are concerned about pests such as ticks. Not only because ticks can attach themselves to children and adults, but also to household pets.

Deer ticks present a very real health hazard to both humans and animals that should not be ignored as they are capable of transmitting Lyme disease. Lyme disease can cause symptoms such as a rash, fever, headache, and fatigue and if not treated early, the infection can spread to joints, heart, and nervous system.

Other pests such as mosquitoes are also a problem faced by many homeowners as they can seriously disrupt any outdoor activities. Backyard Bug Patrol can deal with both ticks and mosquitoes as well as other pests such as stink bugs safely and effectively.

Indoor prevention services are also available for pests such as ants, crickets, fleas, roaches, silverfish, and spiders. In addition, in many treatment cases, 100% organic options are also available. Backyard Bug Patrol's technicians can advise on the most effective form of treatment.

It is not only bugs such as ticks and mosquitoes etc. that Backyard Bug Patrol deals with. Another very real health hazard that concerns many is rodents, and the problems they cause are well-known. Mice can carry various diseases such as hantavirus, salmonellosis and listeria through their urine, droppings, saliva, and nesting materials. In addition, they can cause dangerous physical damage by gnawing on wires as well as other items within a property.

The company has announced that it now offers perimeter rodent control. The company has been providing this service to commercial properties for over ten years and has now formulated a program for its residential customers. Perimeter rodent control is a method that protects a property from mice and rats by preventing them from entering a building by placing outdoor rodent control bait station boxes around the perimeter walls.

Backyard Bug Patrol was founded in 2010 by the Mitchell family after all five of them contracted Lyme Disease. This led to Backyard Bug Patrol's mission statement being "No child should get Lyme Disease in their own backyard". Operating in both Maryland and Virginia the company has helped innumerable home and business owners to regain control of their properties from unwanted pests.

Backyard Bug Patrol offers preventative and remedial treatments both inside and outside the home for householders experiencing unwanted bug problems.
