January 06, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Heber City, UT - SKY Bedding, a top retailer on Amazon.com, has recently expanded their product line to include a variation of their current terry cloth mattress protector. The new variation is a "smooth" mattress protector with all of the same great characteristics of their current highly rated mattress protector. The new smooth mattress protector, launched just before the holidays, has already acquired great appreciation due to its affordability, dependability and user friendly features.

Current customers have expressed satisfaction with the quality of the mattress protector and the fact that it is very comfortable. SKY Bedding mattress protectors currently have 85% of their reviews with five star ratings. This is a high percentage for any product on Amazon and is a testament to the likability of the smooth mattress protector. Five stars is the highest rating any product can attain on Amazon. The large amount of five star ratings gained by the mattress protector shows how well the features of the product resonated with the customer base.

The smooth mattress protector is manufactured to satisfy customers with two levels of protection. It has an upper layer that absorbs moisture while the lower polyurethane barrier acts as a protection against liquids that may inadvertently spill on the material.

One five star reviewer on Amazon, Steve, commented that the mattress protector was able to block spills and performed just as advertised. He remarked, "I've had many 'old school' mattress protectors made of some sort of plastic and this blows them all away! It's everything the description says it is. It is bright white, and fits my deep mattress with a foam pad on top of that, blocks spills, and there is no crinkle sound or feel."

Another five star review mentioned that, "I was very impressed when I took this out of the package. It is very soft and I love the mesh siding that was very stretchable to fit over a large mattress. I really like that it is soft and still protective at the same time. I put this on my downstairs guest bed and I can feel comfortable with guests sleeping on it without the plastic feel to it but at the same time I know that the mattress is protected."

"Our flagship terry cloth mattress pad protector has been a huge success on Amazon. The creation of the smooth mattress pad was just a natural extension to our product line, and thankfully we were able to launch it before the holidays. I think there will be many happy people that received it as a holiday gift," said Spencer, a company representative for SKY Bedding.

The mattress protector is available on Amazon in a variety of sizes from Twin, Queen, King to California King.
