After years of high quality work in the foundation repair and waterproofing industry, Michael Masserang has announced the launch of his new company Masserang Contracting & Consulting, fueled by his deep experience, attention to detail and customer first attitude. Past clients have responded to the news with enthusiasm.

Home improvement experts broadly agree, finding the right contractor can be a trying experience in a great many cases. It's a field that's well known to attract people who are difficult to work with and hardly have customer communication and satisfaction as high priorities. Fortunately, there are exceptions to the rule. Foundation repair and waterproofing expert Michael Masserang is certainly one of those exceptions. Recently, after years of successfully working for some of the largest names in foundation repair and waterproofing industries, Masserang has announced he is launching his own company, Masserang Contracting & Consulting, which puts customer's first, costs low and always aims to exceed expectations. The new website for the company recently went "live" at <http://specialtyfoundationrepair.com>.

"I'm very excited about having the opportunity to launch my own contracting and consulting business," commented Masserang, who has over twenty years experience in the foundation repair and waterproofing industry. "I know this business inside and out, how to deliver the best work at the lowest cost to my clients, and most importantly, in a honest, friendly and transparent way. I pride myself on treating those I work for, and the people I work with, how I would like myself or my family to be treated. We can't wait to build our new company's reputation one happy customer at a time."

According to Masserang, before starting his own firm he worked in both a technician and management role for Dry Pro Basement Systems, considered one of the top 350 waterproofing and foundation companies in the world. He has performed hundreds of crawlspace inspections, foundation repairs, and successfully dealt with every kind of waterproofing and structural issue imaginable. While completing this significant body of work, Masserang has been praised for his ability to communicate with customers and making sure they are informed, comfortable and satisfied throughout the entire process of having work done on their property.

Masserang Contracting and Consulting will be serving the entire greater Charlotte, North Carolina area providing waterproofing, foundation and other contracting services. He prides himself on always being available to discuss a project, give an estimate whenever possible and set an appointment to begin working at the most convenient time possible for clients. Both small and large jobs are being accepted.

Past customers have been quick to praise the quality of his work and integrity.

M.H., from Charlotte, NC, recently said, "I was really impressed by the job Mike did when he came out to do the survey of the crawlspace and to present some possible solutions. He did give us a whole range of solutions... Mike did not try to up sell us things we didn't need."
