Veterans Resort of Colorado, based in Arvada, has announced a complete redesign of their current website. The company explained that the site has been restructured as a means of providing better service to veterans. Elizabeth Bannon, spokesperson for the company, states, "We wanted to better serve our veterans, and felt that our current site wasn't providing everything they needed in a way that was easy for them to access."

The new site offers a detailed overview of what the company does, as well as easier access to contact and donation areas. The mission of Veterans Resort of Colorado, according to Bannon, is to provide an experience for veterans, along with their families. The resort provides relaxation and a number of amenities.

"And we offer a judgment free environment for our veterans," adds Bannon. She states that the entire goal of the resort is to provide a place where veterans can relax and regroup.

The resort includes mountain cabins and veteran services with four nights of complimentary stay in the cabins, located in the Rocky Mountains. The resort has eight cabins available, with a total of five separate floor plans, and the company states that they can accommodate everyone from single veterans to an entire platoon for reunions. All available floor plans can be seen on the resort's newly designed website at http://www.veteransresortofcolorado.com/for-veterans/.

Bannon states that cabins are also pet friendly so veterans with service dogs are more than welcome to stay. Private trails through the Rocky Mountains provide hiking, biking, and cross country skiing as well as snowshoeing opportunities during the winter months.

Fishing is also available in private lakes with handicap accessible boat docs for disable veterans. Bannon states that the entire resort area is designed to be completely accommodating to disabled veterans, and that the newly designed website offers accessibility to learn this information in a much better platform than the old site design.

Bannon states that anyone who is interested in learning more about the resort and amenities for veterans "should contact us directly or visit our newly designed website to learn more and make a reservation."
